RAILROAD WRECK YESTERDAY

Friends and Relatives Hurrying to the Scene.

ADDITIONAL KILLED AND INJURED

Officials Besieged by Anxious Inquirers—Details of the Accident Still Fleagre.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

New York, Oct. 23.—The first train that left the Grand Central station this morning carried many relatives and friends of persons who were reported as killed or injured in the horrible railway wreck at Garrison yesterday. Many of these people came from Newark, Passaic, Jersey City, New York, Brooklyn and other near by cities. A large number of those who feared that friends or relatives might have been on the ill-fated train and those who were merely going to see the wreck left for the scene. There were several Chinamen among the number.

All night the officials of the station were besieged by grief-stricken persons anxiously inquiring for particulars as to the killed and wounded.

The additional injured are: Herman Acker, baggage master, of Peekskill; C. Cunningham, of Peekskill; E. A. Forsyth and wife, of Yonkers; Mrs. C. J. Meehan, of Brooklyn; C. J. Parrish, conductor, and John Smith, express messenger. No one of these is seriously injured.

At the Scene of the Wreck.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Garrison, Oct. 25.—Many men resumed the work of rescue in the rain this morning. Three big floating derricks are grappling for the sunken cars. The Glen Alpine and Nione were drawn out at seven o'clock this morning.

Nobody was found in the car but there were twenty-five valises, coats, vests, trousers and wallets were scattered about in the car showing that it was impossible for many in the car to have escaped.

Diving for the bodies has been resumed. Great crowds are looking on expecting ghastly discoveries. A large number of railroad detectives with small boats are fishing for valuables and have already gathered a bucket full of jewels, watches, pocket books and other valuables. The express car is being closely watched and is said to contain four hundred thousand dollars. All along the line from Peekskill to Cold Springs detectives are guarding valuables.

General Manager Fency was at the scene today but refused to discuss the accident, saying that it was due to providence. Hundreds of people went to the morgue this morning to identify friends if possible.

Fred Olsen, one of the divers, was let down into the sleeping car Hermes this morning. He was seriously cut by the broken glass but succeeded in securing a wallet containing eight hundred dollars. There was no name by which it could be identified.

The List of The Killed Reported

up to noon today was nineteen. They are as follows:

W. S. Booker, Newark, N. J.
John C. Foyle, engineer, of Albany.
E. A. Greer, of Chicago.
A. G. McKay, of Fulton, N. Y.
W. H. G. Meyer, of Passaic, N. J.
Giuseppe Duano, hurt, of Burton, N. Y.
Thomas Reilly, of St. Louis.
John Thompson, fireman, of Albany.
Samuel Williams of Buffalo.
An unknown woman from Hudson, N. Y.
An unknown woman from Buffalo.
Eight Chinamen.

Laying a New Track.

Road master Otis, of Buffalo, has arrived with an increase of three hundred men who will be put to work to dig a curve in the hill for the purpose of laying a new track.

Col. Ashley Cole, Chairman of the State railroad commission with a civil engineer is making a thorough investigation.

The Coroner on the Scene.

The Cold Springs coroner has empanelled a jury and the work of investigating the disaster is being prosecuted in the most thorough manner. The evidence thus far shows that it must have been the constant wear by the recent heavy tides against the embankment. The jury is still open to conviction and is making an investigation today with civil engineers who are expected to submit a scientific opinion as to the cause of the accident.

Percy F. Halto and Ladd Douglas, of Hawkeye, who were reported as dead were found today uninjured. Three more bodies have been recovered of which makes twenty three in all.

SCALCHI SATURDAY NIGHT.

A Packed House Heard the Great Concerto at G. F. College.

The full and enthusiastic house that greeted Scalchi and accompanying artists Saturday night set at rest once for all the question as to whether or not people here will go to see the best. Floor and galleries were filled almost to suffocation with a crowd that listened with appreciation to the truly magnificent singing of the Scalchi company. From the dozens who were heard to express an opinion there was not one adverse criticism. If the company were to sing again a house of twice the capacity could be easily filled.

It is useless to attempt a description of what is indescribable and as song cannot be pictured. An idea of it can be conveyed only by its effect on those who hear it.

When the great Scalchi appeared she was greeted by thunders of applause; when she sang there was not a movement in the assemblage; when she had finished she received an encore that could not be denied. With unusual kindness she gave a second encore singing "Annie Laurie" as few had heard it sung before. There could be no doubt that here, as everywhere, Scalchi captured her audience. Madame Scalchi is truly great. The remarkable quality of her voice is to be likened at times to the rich tones of the cello at others to the deeper notes of the clarinet, but at all times rich and pure and delightfully liquid and flexible. The reception of the other members of the company was hardly less enthusiastic. There is not a singer in the company who is not worthy to support the prima donna. The soprano, mezzo soprano, baritone and tenor each showed themselves artists of the first rank.

The local management were a little afraid that the operatic concert, sung almost exclusively in Italian, might not be appreciated by our people. This fear was, however, dispelled. The entire troupe of singers were so evidently great artists and so much superior to anything of the kind that has come here before, that the splendid audience was soon wild with genuine delight.

The quintette from "Lucia de Lamermoor" was the finest piece of concerted singing that has been our lot to hear. The harmonies in it are entrancing. Next to Madame Scalchi the favorites were Achille Alberti, baritone, and Mlle. Toulouquet, soprano. It was the greatest vocal treat Greensboro has ever had.

Professors Brockman and Peacock are to be congratulated for their enterprise in securing the company, as well as upon its outcome.

THE BALL TOSSERS.

Something More About the Game Between Greensboro and U. N. C.

The football game between Greensboro and the University teams Friday was a rather one sided one. It was science and practice against untrained muscle.

In the first half the 'Varsity team scored two touchdowns and failed on both goals. In this half Greensboro made steady gains, but failed to score. Caldwell made the star play by a flying leap through the University's end.

The second half was the 'Varsity's game straight through, Belden and McRae playing the game.

The thing that surprised the Chapel Hillians was the wonderful powers of endurance shown by Greensboro's men in their untrained condition. The treatment that our team received was all that could be desired. Anything the Greensboro boys can do to bring success to the White and Blue on Thanksgiving Day will be cheerfully done.

Greensboro's line-up was as follows:

Boycott, c; Daniel, l g; Buchanan, l t; Boon, r t; Wharton, r e; Gilmer, q b; Reynolds, l e; Wright, r g; Devlin, r h b; Douglass, l h b; Caldwell, f b.

The team thanks Dr. Baskerville and Mr. Butler for courtesies extended.

Two Weeks in Italy.

A rare treat is in store for our people. Dr. C. Alphonso Smith has consented to deliver his lecture, "Two Weeks in Italy," on next Tuesday night at the Academy of Music, under the auspices of the Emma Gray Missionary Society.

The lecturer will give his impressions of Italian life and scenery as witnessed in Milton, Venice, Florence, Rome and Pompeii. There will be descriptions of a gondola ride, St. Peter's Cathedral, the Catacombs of Rome, the curiosities of Pompeii, the Vesuvius, etc. Admission twenty-five cents. No reserved seats.

OPEN RUPTURE PREDICTED.

Defiant Reply to the Demands of the United States.

WHAT LONDON PAPERS THINK.

Spain is Warned That She Would Be Hopelessly Overmatched in Case of War.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

London, Oct. 25.—United States Ambassador Draper's hurried visit to Rome in connection with Spain's reported defiant reply to the demands of the United States has caused war talk in all European capitals.

The London papers today are unanimous in declaring Spain's reported answer to be defiant, and predict open rupture with the United States, unless she recedes from or modifies her position in regard to the many bitter attacks made up "insolent yankees."

By more violent papers several warn Spain that she would be hopelessly overmatched in case of war with the United States.

The Fever Situation.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

New Orleans, Oct. 25.—Five new cases of yellow fever and one death were reported this morning. Otherwise there is no change in the situation. There is no promise of frost though the weather is cooler.

Refugees in Atlanta.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Atlanta, Oct. 25.—By special trains two thousand people arrived this morning from Montgomery, Selma and other points where the fever appears to be increasing; more are on the way. At Selma they sold $12,000 worth of railroad tickets yesterday. There was frost here this morning.

Georgia Minstrels.

This city will soon be visited by the oldest amusement enterprise in existence. Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels, an organization of all that is the best in genuine colored minstrelsy, and one that has been under one management for twenty-four years, a long time for any enterprise to exist, especially in minstrelsy. There is always cause for effect, and the cause in this case is that Richards & Pringle have always organized each season a particularly strong company of colored artists, never attempting to trade on their splendid reputation, but constantly trying to eclipse themselves each season by bringing together a stronger and more meritorious company, and presenting a more entertaining programme, and in union this season with Rusco & Holland's Operatic Minstrels—they present a monster organization of over forty people, with two bands in parade, and all new scenery, wardrobe, etc. Adv.

Gambling in Cripple Creek.

Out in Cripple Creek the gambling houses are running in every saloon. They are huge gilded affairs, where the hard working miners, after coming from their eight hour shifts go to while away their time and money in stead of thinking of home and mother and filling their socks with money to pay off the mortgages on the farms back home. The men stand five and six deep behind the wheels watching the players as they risk their money, the less adventurous hardly having seen some man quit a winner, they, too, step up and bet on the black or the red. On the table are stacked piles of silver coin and gold eagles, and the operators of the machines every little while take occasion to show that the game is backed by much more than the thousand or so that is in sight by displaying a stack of bills in a receptacle behind the table where the notes are thrown when paid in, with a kind of reckless abandon that is quite taking.—Nebraska State Journal.

Wedding Tomorrow at Reidsville.

One of Greensboro's popular young men, Mr. Charles H. McKnight, will leave tomorrow for Reidsville, where, at 5 o'clock p. m. he will be united in marriage to Miss Louise Allen, of that place. Mr. Geo. A. Rankin will accompany the groom to Reidsville.

It will be a quiet, home wedding, attended by a few special friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. H. F. Creitzburg, pastor of the Reidsville Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. McKnight will spend a day or two at Mr. McKnight's father's, near Greensboro, after which they will take an extended trip to the principal southern cities—as far south as Jacksonville, Florida.

AFTER FUSION, WHAT?

The one political phase with which the press of the state is concerned itself just now is the question of fusion with the Populists. It has been discussed good naturedly, and bitterly, briefly and at length, favorably and unfavorably. It must be said that the bitter and lengthy and unfavorable comment has predominated.

Fusion means mutual concessions, the yielding of points, the partial sacrifice of principles. Whether it is wise to fuse must depend upon the extent of sacrifice to be made; upon the importance of the points to be yielded; upon the advantages to be gained by the concessions.

If fusion meant the indissoluble union of the Democratic and Populist parties in this state into one party strong enough, and wise enough, and conservative enough to rule the state safely and well for years to come, then should grave concessions be made to that end and the smaller principle be sacrificed for the greater. Good government being the one legitimate object of all political parties, fusion would stand justified for the sake of its fruit.

As a matter of fact would fusion mean this? Unfortunately no. It would not mean union of the parties at all. It would mean an agreement between the representatives of the Democratic party and the leaders of the Populist party to put one set of candidates in the field and cast the vote of both parties for them. Upon what grounds could such an agreement be reached? By a division of the offices between the two parties. What then would become the objective point of fusion? Purely and solely the obtaining of place. Not good government but spoils would be the motive power of the fight. There would be no union between the rank and file of the parties; the Populist would remain a Populist; the Democrat would cleave to his Democracy.

There is no question that the two parties voting together would be victorious. That is conceded. But what would follow the victory? An inevitable and disgraceful scramble for place. All men know the voracious appetite of the Populist leader; the Democratic leader would not be averse to his share and possibly a little more. Then would come dissension, recrimination and all the disgusting scenes that have characterized fusion between Populists and Republicans. It might not be quite so bad; it would be bad enough. From such conditions the Democratic party would emerge weaker numerically, emasculated, broken in spirit and crippled in self respect, with a future offering nothing but a dreary round of defeats or sordid bargaining for a voice in the government of the state. It would have gained one brief triumph; it would have lost all hope of permanent control for years to come. Therein lies the fatal objection to fusion; it means a deal between leaders, not a coalescence of parties. This is not an end for which the Democratic party can afford to sacrifice one whit of principle.

Can the Democratic party win without fusion? The outcome of an attempt alone can determine. If it lose this time it will win next; the chances are in favor of its winning alone if the fight be made on the right lines. Whether it win or lose it will be the party of patriotism and principle and will draw unto itself in the end enough men who place good government above party to insure the permanent emancipation of the state through its instrumentality.

The majority of Populists are good citizens; they are honest in their views, whether those views be right or wrong; but they are exceptionally credulous. As a result their leaders are transcendently demagogic. They are more dangerous as allies than as enemies. Senator Butler recognizes this and is adopting a conciliatory attitude with fusion and its consequent disorganization and turmoil in view. Out of this turmoil he hopes to snatch another term in the senate.

Honest and stable government can come to any state or any nation only through the dominance of one party committed unswervingly to some fixed policy. From attempted co-operation of two parties committed to two policies and with two sets of leaders can come only constant change, vacillation and unrest. The two parties and the two sets of leaders may be honest and intelligent to begin with, in the end the leaders of both will be debauched and the fury of factional hate will displace legitimate party enthusiasm. Corruption is apt enough to creep into high places; let us not make its way inevitable by conditions where in he who buys and sells most shamelessly will be the most the victor.

Grant that the Populist could rule well alone. Grant that the Democrat could rule well alone. Yet could both jointly not rule well.

The Democratic party has a great opportunity, the opportunity to assemble the discordant elements of the present and weld them into one strong party under whose unwavering policy the citizen body may turn to the great intellectual and material development that should come to North Carolina with her industrial awakening. It has the privilege, if it will but use it, to go down in history as the party which sacrificed temporary advantage to the ultimate good of the state and by so doing rescued the state from the hands of those who have done so much to blacken and disgrace her, nay more, as the party which made further disgrace impossible.

The issue is squarely before it. Shall it choose brief triumph, followed by certain defeat, or take the chances of temporary defeat, followed by permanent and certain victory?

A Kansas superintendent put the following in a teachers examination: "After the Omaha platform, what is the greatest American document written since the Declaration of Independence?" After the Omaha platform is it? Why sure: A patent medicine almanac.

PUBLIC sentiment will ultimately settle down to the firm conclusion that certain dismissals from state institutions have occurred rather late in the day.

For the first time in their political existence, perhaps, Senator Gorman and Senator Platt are fettered together with a fellow feeling.

LORD SALISBURY will probably be commemorated in English history as the statesman who was uniformly and consistently afraid to.

THE most dreadful consequence of the Luetgert fiasco will be the crop of newspaper puns that a retrial will sprout.

"With the aid of my wheel," remarked the party who had hitherto done most of the talking, "I can cover more ground than by any other means." The party who had lost both legs and arms demanded excitedly: "Did you ever try dynamite?"—Detroit Journal.

It will pay you to read the advertising columns of THE TELEGRAM. They contain some mighty interesting reading.

Another quiet Sunday has just passed in police circles. One officer told us today that no arrest was made Saturday night or yesterday.

The latchstring to many marvellous squirrel hunting yarns hangs conspicuously on the outside these days but is too "snaky" to be pulled.

Water pipes are being laid from the main on North Elm Street into the factory building to be occupied by the Berger-Wood Manufacturing company.

Kennie Pfohl, who has been in the city since Friday, returned to Chapel Hill today. He stayed over here to attend the Sealeh concert at the College Saturday night.

We have been informed by some of our male friends that Misses Douglas, Peyton and Settle, of this city, compose the bouquet of beauties which carried off the first prize at the state fair.

A stone cutter named McIntosh, died suddenly in Winston yesterday. His death was caused by strong drink, we are told. He had been employed by McCalliard, a branch of the Mt. Airy Granite quarry.

Consultation cheap, "good for all ailments"—the columns of THE TELEGRAM. A lady advertised for lost ducks and the ad led to their recovery. Put it in THE TELEGRAM and the folks will see it—and read it.

H. W. Cobb and wife, of Danville, and Miss Ella Farris, of Reidsville, spent Sunday here with J. S. Cobb. Mr. Cobb and Miss Farris returned home today, while Mrs. Cobb and children will spend sometime visiting here.

Pastor Gay, of Centenary church, struck some hard blows yesterday, against the immoral and indecent shows which our people frequently witness. Pastor Gay is right, and all christian people who heard him fully endorse his denunciation of this growing evil.

All persons desiring to enter plants for the Chrysanthemum show, which will be held early in November by the ladies of West Market street church, are requested to send their names at their earliest convenience to Mrs. G. W. Whitsett, stating as nearly as possible what number of plants and for what premiums, they desire to enter.

At The Opera House.

The Opera House was well filled Saturday night to see Fabio Romani. The piece was unobjectionable and was well received. There was some complaint of slowness in shifting the scenery but the house on the whole was reported well pleased. The earthquake scene was the best part of the play, though as a spectacular performance it was necessarily limited.

Cheap Gas.

Since October 1st, 1897, and forward, illuminating gas furnished at $2 per thousand feet, if bill is paid on presentation, provided the same amounts to $1 or more for each meter. Fuel gas for cooking purposes $1 per thousand feet, net.

WHO'S YOUR FRIEND.

This Play Will Be at the Academy of Music Wednesday Night.

The Charleston, S. C. Courier says: Robert E. Graham, supported by an exceptionally strong company, will appear at the Academy of Music Thursday evening in Louis DeLange's sparkling comedy, entitled "Who's Your Friend?" Mr. Graham is so well known to the theatre-going public of this city that it is unnecessary to expatiate on his ability to please his patrons. Suffice it to say that in "Who's Your Friend?" Mr. Graham has a play that cannot fail to please and which ranks favorably with the latest metropolitan success and which it is expected will create a greater furor in the theatrical world than either "A Girl from Paris" or "Never Again."

Messrs. Williams and Nuckols have spared no pains in the production of this comedy and have engaged a company of well known players to support Mr. Graham.
